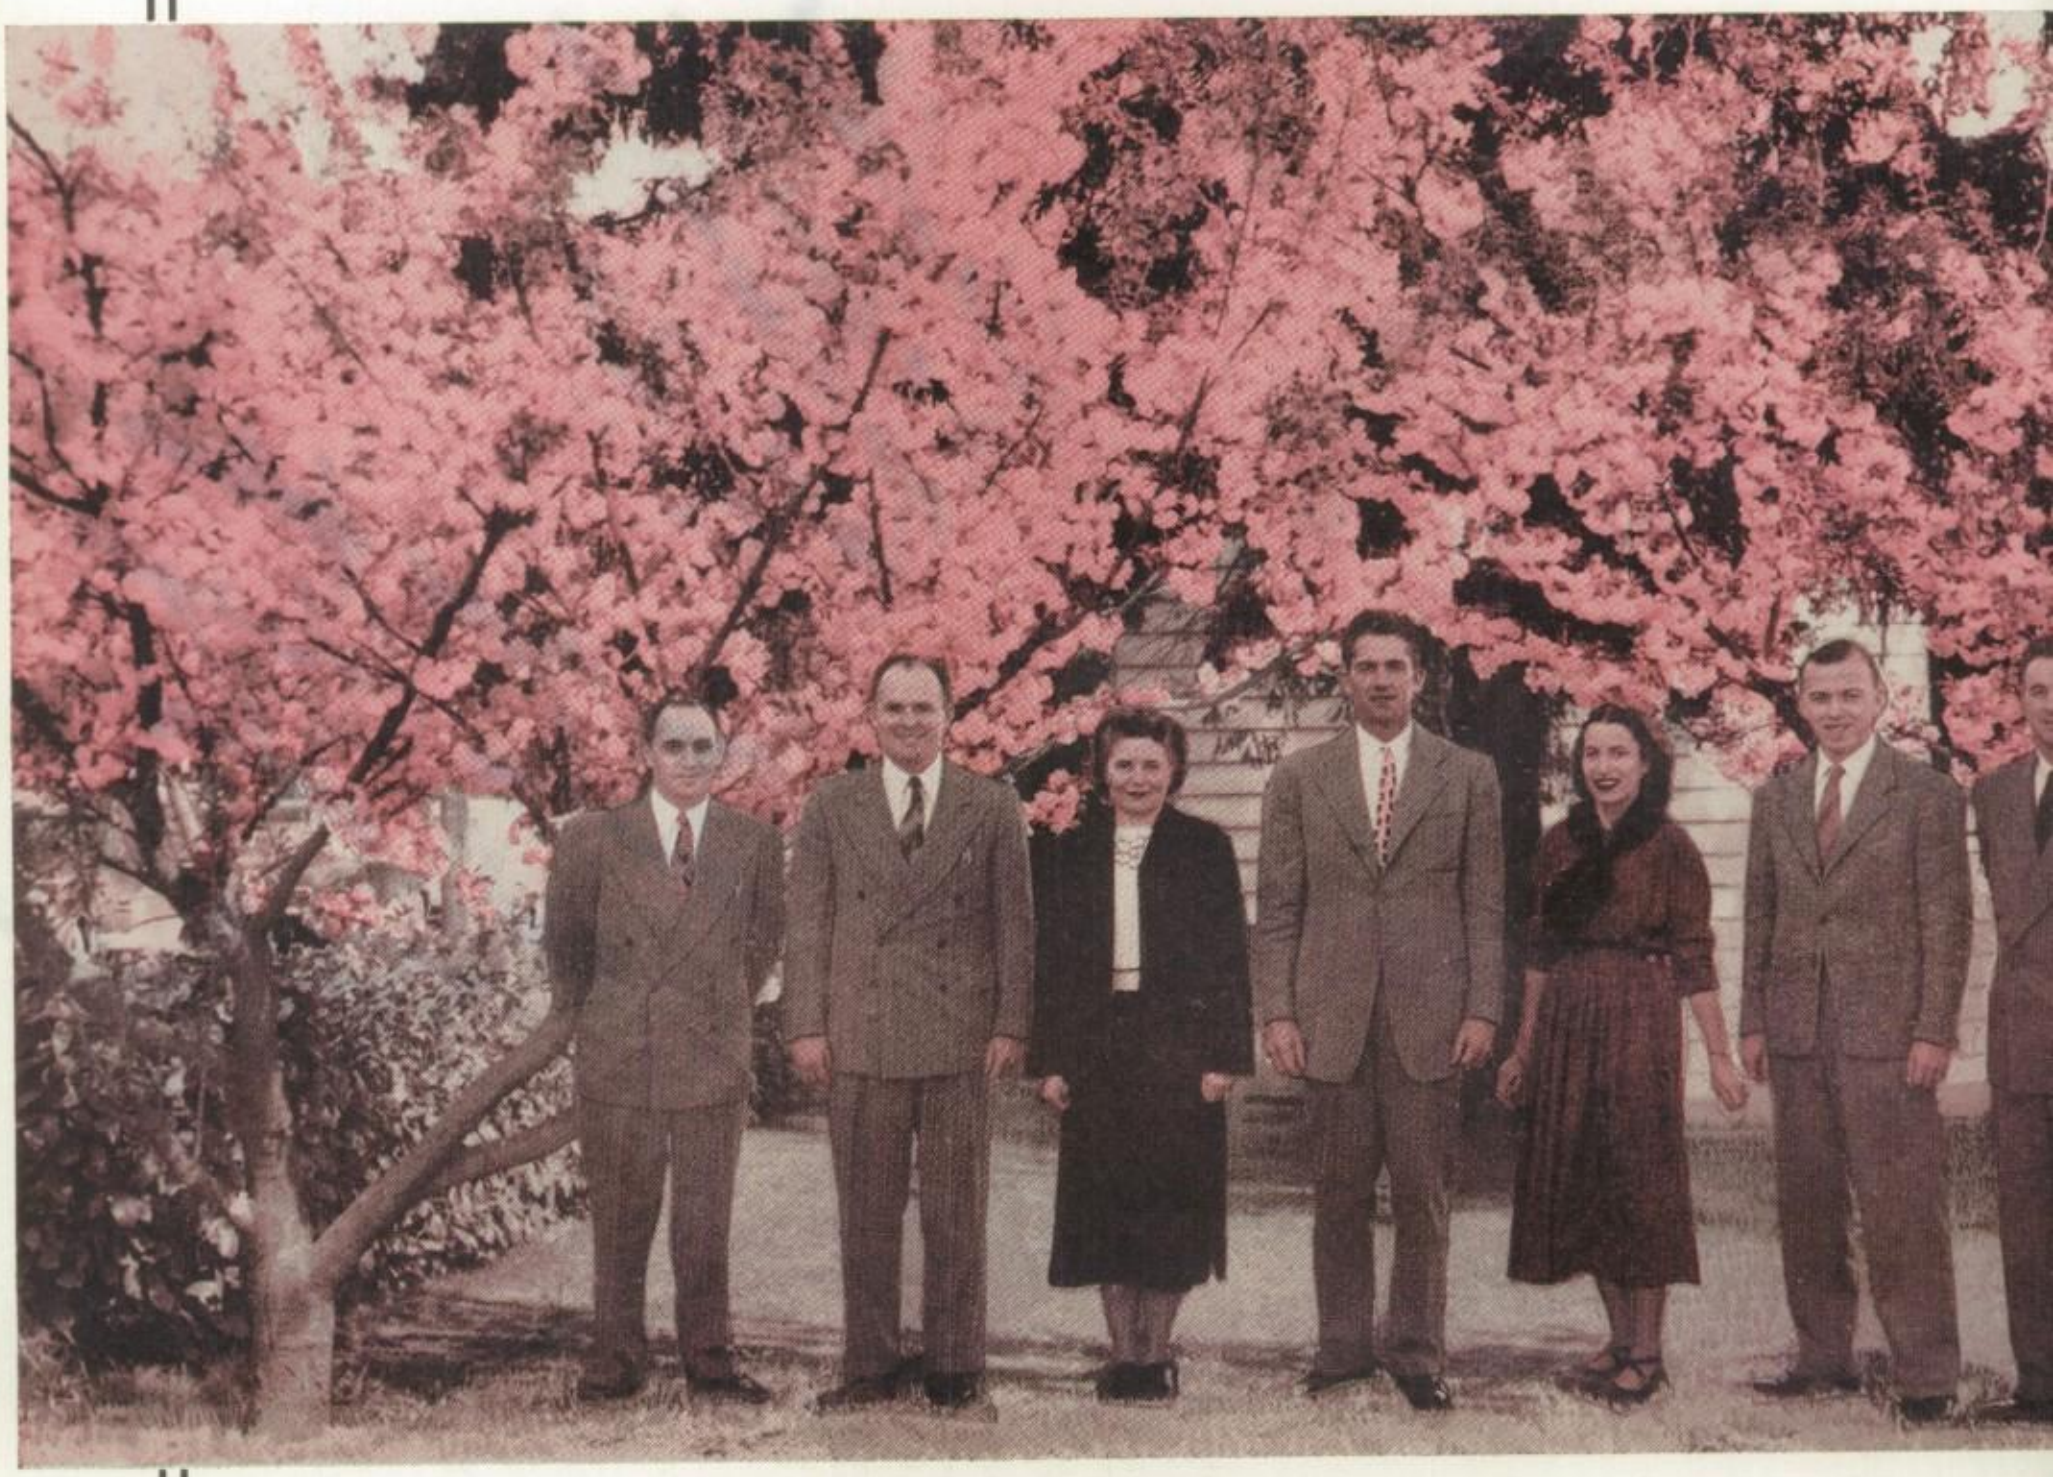
Forward

IT IS THE PURPOSE of this book to give you a record of your high school days that you may carry along with the rich and varied memories within your hearts. We have tried to show the friendship of students while working, playing, creating, studying, and dreaming. So it is with a theme of "Campus Friendship" that we give you this 1950 Pirates' Log.



COUNSELLORS • Neil McKay, Laurence Lemmel, Theda Lomax,
Jack Mackenroth, Mary Durning, Roy Wahle, and William Graham.

Dedication

WITH A THEME of campus friendship, there is no one person or group of persons in any high school who deserve the dedication of this year's Pirates' Log more than do our class counsellors. It is to these friends that the students go with their many and varied problems.

In a system whereby a counsellor stays with a class from the eighth grade through the senior year, there is opportunity to form many true and warm friendships during the formative years of the student's life. Long after graduation, when a student returns to the halls of Highline, the first one that he will wish to see will be his sincere friend, his class counsellor.

CAMPUS FRIENDSHIPS implant the seed which grows to unite all peoples with the unselfish spirit necessary to stand behind the instruments of peace. When this priceless seed matures, Tennyson's prophecy will be fulfilled:

"For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see;
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;
Till the war-drum throbbed no longer, and the battle flags were furled
In the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

FRIENDLY FINANCIERS

HIGHLINE SUCCESSES of the past year were largely the result of the efficiency, cooperation, and wise planning of the five-member school board. Not only did their labors make it possible for the Highline School District to accommodate the enormous student population growth, but the entire community benefited by their leadership.

Under the guidance of the dean of the Highline School Board, Dr. Victor Thompson, the Highline school system was developed into the largest rural school district in the state. Mr. William Furman, president, had a great deal to do with the advancement of physical education programs. Lyle Guynn was vice-president of the school board. Mr. Donald Pollock, past president, has served on the board for seven years. Superintending the activities of the entire district rested in the competent hands of the former Highline High School principal, Mr. L. D. Baker. The business manager and secretary of the board was Mr. Lyle Daverin, a past member of the high school faculty.

THEY SERVED US

BUZZ-BZZ-BZ. No, not bees, but the Parent-Teacher Association discussing counselling programs, modern teaching methods, and adolescent behavior in buzz groups—just one of the many innovations in this year's P.-T. A. programs.

Diversified entertainment also characterized other meetings during the year. Mr. Roy Wahle of the faculty explained the evolution of high schools as a learning institution. Dr. Ralph M. Stolzheise, psychiatrist, spoke to the parents and teachers on "Understanding Human Nature." The students added to the enjoyment of the group when the Drama Club put on monologues and a playlet, and the Home Relations classes presented a style review of the past fifty years.

STUDENT BODY IN ACTION

WITH A SUCCESSFUL year through friendly cooperation as their goal, Harvey Ames, Elaine Daverin, Audrey Slaybaugh, and Bill Angevine undertook the leadership of the student association. First on the agenda was the revision of the student body constitution from the outdated 1935 edition to one which more adequately met present needs. With this as a firm foundation for their activities, the student association launched forth on a series of various undertakings, such as the planning and construction of the Memorial Field ticket booth, designed by Jim Massick. Funds raised at special noon movies and the Prep-Highline basketball game became the basis of a memorial for Harold Rude, vice-principal, who passed away last summer. These are but a sample of many successful ASB undertakings.

Working with the officers were the members of the Board of Control. Various committees took charge of its main goals, which were making the "Highline City Limits" known at the State Basketball Tournament, encouraging exchange assemblies, planning the student body elections in the spring, welcoming visiting groups from colleges and several of the other league schools, and the regular activity duties.

GIRL'S CLUB

OFFICERS • Top to Bottom: Jean Ross, president; Marian Engebo, vice-president; Aida Lou Stubsjoen, secretary; Agnes Schindler, treasurer; Miss Mary Durning, adviser.

FRIENDSHIP was the motivation for this year's Girls Club. Typifying this spirit was Friendship Day, in October, including a tea for feminine newcomers to Highline and a dance at which one of these newcomers, Nancy Daniels, was crowned "Miss Friendship."

Activities included a food, clothing, and monetary collection for needy families, the sale of stationery and pennants, the selection of "Girls of the Month," and several assemblies. Late in the term Millie Heckenliable, sophomore representative, took her place on the Cabinet.

It was a rare honor, indeed, when the annual Puget Sound League Girls' Club Conference came to Highline. This was the local Girls' Club's first opportunity to act as hostesses. "A Tree United" was chosen for the Conference theme, the tree standing for a well-integrated group. Frenzied plans were made, and decorations on the Christmas motif were hung. Then came the second of December; the three students from foreign countries, guest speakers for the day, arrived; and some one hundred fifty laughing girls and their advisers made their way to the El Cenar for luncheon.

Following the Conference, the Cabinet decorated the halls and stairways for Christmas, put on a Christmas party for all committee members, and had their own evening of fun with a progressive dinner, a theater party—informal style, and a slumber party.

White Clothes Day, an annual Girls Club activity, this year under the co-chairmanship of Norma Ostrom and Arlene Van Derveer, took place on May 5. Culminating the year's activities was the Mother-Daughter Tea, May 12, at which the new officers and Cabinet were installed. It was indeed a year to be remembered for its cooperative and friendly spirit.

BOYS' CLUB

OFFICERS • Top to Bottom: Dan Mahoney, president; Byron Beckman, vice-president; Chuck Tucker, secretary; Merle Duncan, treasurer; Mr. Larry Lemmel, adviser.

"WHAT CAN WE DO TO HELP?" was the theme around which the 1949-1950 Boys' Club revolved. At the helm of the organization was Mr. Larry Lemmel, who attempted always to direct the boys to new and interesting fields of useful endeavor.

When asked what the purposes of Boys' Club were, Mr. Lemmel replied, "To further school activities and promote good will and understanding." This the leaders sought to do, always seeing that affairs were running smoothly and without interruption.

In addition to this policy of good will, the year's activities were highlighted by a variety of programs. The first business meeting, at which the year's plans were discussed and the officers and cabinet were introduced, was the opening event. Another event sponsored by this masculine element of the student body was one of the year's most successful dances, "The Buccanneer Bounce." Immediately following the Kent-Highline football game many Pirates, elated by victory, beat their way to the Burien Field House for three hours of dancing and rejoicing.

Other projects included the maintaining of a bulletin board in the study hall, where the committee posted clippings of interest to Highline students, and the showing of a movie on the Marine battle at Okinawa. Accompanying this movie was an informative talk on Marine life and warfare.

Because of the many complications which arose against them during the year, the Boys' Club was not wholly as effective as it had hoped to be, but at the close of its annual activity agenda, the incoming officers and cabinet were confident of a bigger and better year in 1951 when that old familiar slogan, "Just another Boys' Club service," will again ring through Highline's halls.

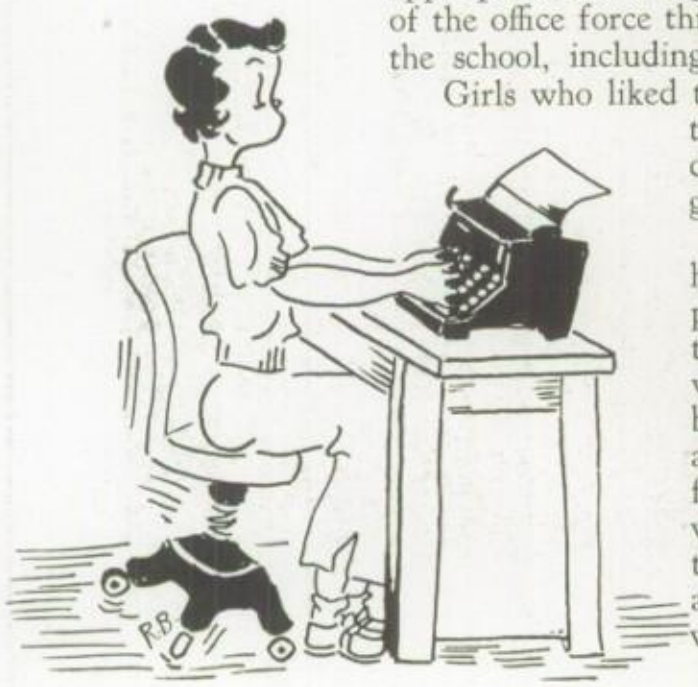
FRIENDS IN NEED

BY INAUGURATING a new system this year, Mrs. Nellie Brown and her conscientious assistants carried on the work of the office with clock-work precision. Mrs. Brown could be greeted any morning as she "peeked" over the counter, extending a firm but friendly hand to aid those students whose fool-proof excuses were really only alibis easily deflated. Assisting her were Miss Kathryn Remick and Miss Carol Nilsen.

Kathryn became known as the "voice" of Highline High School, as one of her chief jobs was answering the telephone. She also kept the permanent record cards in apple-pie order and prepared the transcripts for hopeful seniors. Carol, a new member of the office force this year, had the privilege of handling all the financial problems of the school, including student organizations.



Girls who liked to dash madly through the halls worked in the main office under the supervision of Nellie, Kathryn, and Carol. They filled orders, delivered messages, smiled pleasantly at all, and did a thoroughly good job of co-ordinating the school.

This year the attendance records were kept in the old junior high office under the supervision of Mrs. Arlene Holliday. Each period two girls worked in this office, receiving Torch credit for their work. These girls ran errands, collected attendance slips, wrote tardy excuses, and waited on the students and teachers who brought in various kinds of business and school problems. The attendance office also served as the "information bureau," being flooded with all types of questions, such as "Have you seen my wallet?" "Can you tell me where Joe Doe is this period?" Despite the questions asked and the services that were given often long after business hours, the office force as a unit agreed that it had a wonderful time in '49 and '50.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS

CLASS DAY . . . BACCALAUREATE . . . COMMENCEMENT—and in five short days the seniors of 1950, by donning their navy blue caps and gowns, were transformed from high schoolers to adults.

Increased enrollment made it necessary for Class Day ceremonies to be held in the new gymnasium. Janet Usher and her committee planned the prophecies, bequests, history, and entertainments for that Friday in June. Chosen by the seniors were Joan Mathews, Rick Anderson, and Chuck Tucker as soloists; the rose as class flower; and the class colors—silver and rose.

Speaker Dr. L. David Cowie, assisting ministers, graduate soloists, A Cappella Choir, and Senior Orchestra joined their talents on Sunday afternoon to pay tribute to the graduating seniors. Besides the service, the Baccalaureate Committee, with Muriel Weber as chairman, assembled programs and decorated the auditorium.

"Friendship" was the theme for the senior activities, and so it was that Tuesday evening, June 6, found commencement speakers Jean Browning, Ray Parr, Elaine Daverin, and Bob DeWitt lauding friendship in the home and community, in educational institutions, in the nation, and throughout the world. Adding their own tireless efforts to graduation ceremonies was Margie Tobie's committee, which tallied votes for speakers and the soloists—Lillian Manzo and Joe Paolino, assembled the program, and performed the thankless task of seating the nearly three hundred seniors.

Other committees were on the job throughout the year, not just planning Senior Week activities, but also the many other phases of graduation. Agnes Schindler was in charge of taking orders and fitting caps and gowns. Orders for pins and rings were handled by Mona Beers; the traditional gift was selected and purchased under Betty Mustoe's leadership; and the demand for cards and announcements was supplied by Anne Johanson's committee. Connie Little officiated over Senior Prom arrangements.

CLASS DAY . . . Baccalaureate . . . Commencement . . . the final notes of "Pomp and Circumstance" faded away and another Senior Class passed on to newer spheres. There were memories, many and nostalgic memories . . . of those trying grade school days . . . Highline at last with its broad halls and new friends to meet . . . running for school busses . . . football games with their lusty yelling and steaming hot dogs . . . operettas and plays . . . elections . . . square dancing in P.E. . . . the big blizzard of '50 . . . senior pictures . . . exchanging senior cards . . . caps and gowns.

There were times, too, when every heart beat with pride . . . Bill Loken elected to State football team . . . Highline's yell and song staffs invited to lead cheering at State . . . Roger Read, senior class president, selected Student of the Year . . . Ray Parr winning fame with his orations . . . Highline's winning the basketball championship and going to the State Tournament . . . a more than successful Variety Hour.

Some of the memories were not so pleasant . . . flunking tests . . . chem lab during "Sulphur Week" experiments . . . split lunch hours . . . timed writes . . . library fines . . . memorizing poetry . . . the dripping rain.

The class of "50" will long be remembered, for its originality, friendliness, and enthusiasm, and also for its gum-chewing and its shuffling feet. It will be remembered as a class of gripers, but also as a class that dauntlessly worked to glorify Highline.

Yes, another Senior Class has graduated, and as they passed, a thousand upturned faces asked, "Was it worth it?" and every senior nodded in assent.

HAVING SHOWN THEIR ABILITY for leadership in many ways, the Class of '51 was able to look back with pride upon a busy year under the guidance of Mr. Donald Simpson, adviser; Mr. Larry Lemmel, counselor; and the class officers, Jim Langness, president; Wai Eng, vice-president; Alice Taylor, secretary; and Lonnie Shreeve, treasurer. Willard Julum preserved order at the post of sergeant-at-arms.

Athletically the juniors were unwilling to be outdone by any other class. Fourteen received major awards in football, and two, Duane Knighton and Bill Kincaid, received honorable mention on the all-conference team. Howard Wallenberg, Ron Luthy, and Bob Malone spark-plugged the basketball team as they defeated Kent-Meridian, their co-champions in the conference, and went on to the State Tournament. Bob placed on the all-conference team and on the third all-state team, and Ron received honorable mention on the all-state team.

Not to be outshown by the athletes, Dan Berg and Jim Friet brought further praise to their school by their debating skills, and they, along with Harriet Lord, June Killin, Louanne Martin and Juanita Osterhoudt, appeared regularly on the grand honor roll. Nadine Deffries and Jamel Hassen were on the yell staff, and Janet Rinehart, song queen, was assisted by two other juniors, Frary Hager and Bonnie Wallace. Harriet Lord, Verna Ness, and Sharon Pearson acquired leads in "Ghost Wanted," the all-school play. Peggy Ballard headed the cast of "Meet Arizona," a comic operetta, and also received a superior rating at the Western Washington Annual Music Festival, as did baton-twirler Norma Ostrom.

The spring talent show with the theme, "Television," put on by the juniors, under the chairmanship of Carolyn Johnson, ended an eventful year, as this group looked forward to next year when they will take their place at the head of the student association.

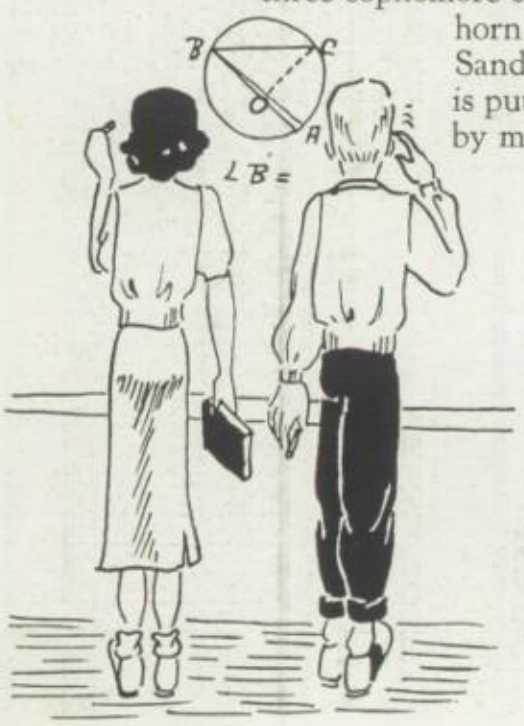
WITH FRIENDSHIP, good sportsmanship, and cooperation as their goal, the Class of '52 has climbed up one more rung of the ladder of achievement. Besides producing sports stars of tomorrow, they have some excellent leaders to their credit, such as those elected to preside over the Sophomore Class. Wielding a firm hand as president was Vern Zeller with Jack Fredrickson second in command. Secretary Dot Burley kept track of class meetings, Mary Ellen Conrad handled the finances, while Jim Albright was sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Laird acted as faculty adviser.

Many fields were conquered by these ambitious under-classmen. One-seventh of the more than four hundred sophomores proudly displayed their one-bar Torch pins. First semester grand honor roll claimed Pattie McNamara, Audrey Hill, Patsy Bach, Marialee Parisio, and Don Sherrard. Chosen as senior high Girl of the Month for March was Shirley Ashley. Millie Heckenliable was elected to the senior high Girls' Club Cabinet as sophomore representative. At the Western Washington Music Contest, three sophomore soloists, Lind Boyd, piano; Ed Grier, drum; and Don Daverin, French horn; emerged triumphantly with superior ratings. Margie Hein and Sandra Kalina won a cherry pie baking contest, proving the Class of '52 is putting out some good cooks. The class was well represented in dramatics by minor leads in the all-school play and operetta.



There were additional conquests for these aspiring under-classmen. Sports claimed a long list of followers in football, swimming, tennis, H.G.A.A., and skiing. Debate attracted a few who enjoyed the battle of words. Perhaps the main social project of the year was a dance on March 29, to which the entire senior high was invited. One hour of entertainment climaxed an evening of enjoyable dancing and merriment.

With two more shining years ahead of them, the Class of '52 looks back to memories that will spur them on to greater achievements.

JUNIOR HIGH

FOLLOWING THE EXAMPLES set for them by their officers and advisers, the Classes of '53 and '54 well deserve credit for their work in 1949 and 1950. Officers were Frank Schraum, president; Diane Williams, vice-president; Roma Satterthwaite, secretary; and Jo Ann Barnhart, treasurer. The freshmen were advised by Mr. Neil McKay while Mr. Roy Wahle supervised the eighth grade. Honorable mention should be given to the Student Council and Room Representatives, who worked hand in hand with the officers and advisers to produce a better junior high.

The activities of the class were legion. Forty junior high students gained recognition as Torch members, while two were Grand Honor students. Those on the Grand Honor Roll were Nanette Maze and Yolanda Jensen. In athletics, as well as in scholastics, the junior high pupils were again leaders. The teams finished near the top in football and basketball, winning three out of five games in football, and six out of ten in basketball. The track squad also showed possibilities.

Aside from their usual musical feats, the students received "superior" ratings in the Western Washington Music Meet, held in March. These students were Jerry Bayne, Ray Snyder, Geraldine Lindsey, and Esther Baynton. Various organizations sponsored other activities, such as dances and assemblies, which made school interesting to the students. All in all, Highline Junior High proved themselves to be an important part of high school life.

BUSY BRAINS

MEMBERSHIP OF THE 1949-50 Senior High Torch Society numbered the greatest in all its existence. The group reached this height with a total of thirty-seven senior members, thirty-two juniors, and sixty sophomores. Students in Torch were actively interested in the school and its prestige as well as their own grade point averages. Mr. Earl Trowbridge, adviser to the group, said of this honor society, "Torch is the symbol of leadership in scholastic and extra-curricular activities. It is an organization that recognizes leadership in school life."

Aims of the club were to develop the students in two channels of activity—scholastic and social. Each member had his own interests, and Torch recognized any musical, artistic, sport, dramatic, or service talents, as long as the contributor had the necessary scholastic ability. Points toward membership were not merely limited to a few activities alone, for almost every service to the school gave credits toward Torch membership.

BUSY BRAINS

Symbolic of the Society is the torch, which stands for progress; this is the emblem on the senior pin. Other insignia of Torch are one-bar pins for sophomores and two-bar pins for juniors.

Officers for Torch—Lillian Manzo, Georgia Beal, Louanne Martin and Juanita Jaber—were all well-known in numerous activities around the school.

According to custom, Torch pins were given to students in an assembly early in the fall. These assemblies are occasions of formality and propriety. As scheduled, a distinguished speaker, the Honorable Adolphus Einsteiner, eminent educator, was introduced. It was not long before students recognized him to be Bob Steiner, accountant for the athletic department of the University. During the course of his entertaining remarks he spoke seriously to the students saying, "Don't study for grades alone. Study, instead, for the end-product, your own success." Mr. Leonard Johnson concluded the program by presenting the annual Torch pins to the members of the organization. The program also included musical, dramatic and novelty numbers. Duane Smith, a cappella accompanist, played two classical numbers. Georgia Beal presented a clarinet solo accompanied by Carol Albrecht at the piano.

Highline was justly proud of Torch for it was an outstanding group which worked for still more outstanding goals.

ONE WAY, PLEASE!

WITH THEIR BRIGHT purple and gold sweaters flashing like rays of sunlight through the sometimes somber halls and seen perpetually directing the students and visitors through the milling mass of spectators at the various school functions, Knights of the Cutlass will long be remembered, especially by those who attempted a devious short cut.

Led by Skipper Bill Angevine and his officers, Jim Massick and Al Latimer, and inspired by the more than competent direction of Mr. Lowell Mason, serving his first year as adviser to the Knights in Gold, this year the Cutlass was completely reorganized with a new constitution drawn up by the active members. These members were chosen at the first of the year by a faculty committee. Mr. Johnson, Mr. Laird, Mr. Lemmel, Mr. Mason, and Mr. Trowbridge were the men directly responsible for this year's fine group.

Throughout the school year a varied program was undertaken by the organization. The first of these undertakings was to be on hand at all home basketball games. Whenever a game was played, different Cutlass members could be recognized in the vast crowd by their purple and gold sweaters. In addition to assisting in athletic events the Cutlass has taken particular pride in the appearance of the campus. In the spring a campaign was launched to keep the campus clean. This undertaking was started in the lunch room. By keeping unnecessary paper and lunch left-overs from being carried outside they stopped the chief cause of the defacing of the campus. The Cutlass set an example to be followed by the Junior and Senior High School in completing their projects in good order.

Throughout the school the phrase is heard, "One way, please!" The Cutlass are on patrol. Truly the days are short at Highline because there are so many "knights."

FRIENDLY WITH BOOKS

HIGHLINE'S BOOK CLUB is composed of approximately twenty students who share a common enjoyment in reading good books. The club is under the experienced leadership of Harriet Lord, president; Verna Ness, vice-president; and Ruby Bandle, secretary. These students of book lore and cultural advancement, who met twice a month during luncheon to review books and discuss other literary material, are primarily interested in increasing their own reading enjoyment.

The club has assisted in several projects during the year, including the designing, making and caring for library displays and posters, writing book reviews for the High Lines, and the annual Book Club faculty tea, sponsored during Book Week. To add to the students' enjoyment, Miss Nichols, adviser, surprised club members with a party during one of the regular meetings.

CURTAIN TIME

COMPLETING ANOTHER of their usual busy and successful years Drama Shoppe again proved itself ". . . a group that has been organized strictly for the enjoyment of the students," as stated the adviser, Miss Dorothy Shipley. This goal was carried out to the fullest extent by their officers, Bob DeWitt, president; Margie Tobie, vice-president; Agnes Schindler, secretary; and Jean Browning, business manager.

Included in their busy schedule was the presentation of the all-school production, "Ghost Wanted," a three-act comedy with Bob DeWitt, Gerry Talent, Marjorie Tobie and Norman Boulanger assuming leading roles. Other activities of Drama Shoppe included the production of pantomimes, one-act plays, and scenes from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," for P.-T. A. programs and school assemblies. The highlight of their social life was a theater party to the "Showboat," where they saw "Playboy of the Western World."

FACT FINDERS

WORKING BEHIND a background of colorful, mystic, and interesting books, the members of the library staff were found always on the job. This group led an active year helping students and, in the fall, sponsoring the annual "Book Week" poster contest in coordination with the art classes.

The library staff could be seen at any time digging out those hard-to-find books for the reference seekers, and helping keep the library up-to-date with the latest exhibits of new books and other subjects of interest.

The library staff was made up of both boys and girls this year, some working for their own enjoyment and others for the Torch credit which they received. The group was under the supervision of Miss Claudia Nichols, and to the entire staff goes our hearty thanks for an excellent job.

THEY LED THE WAY

STANDING READY to greet you, find you a seat, and give you a program, were the always ready and willing usherettes. These girls could be found at any school movie, assembly, or sports activity. During the football season they were even braving the elements out on Memorial Field to take tickets and to help in any way possible. With the aid of some twenty-five girls at every activity all could see that everything was well under control.

The girls this year were under the supervision of Mr. Roy Wahle and Miss Lydia Palmer, faculty advisers, and Juanita Jaber, president of the club. The girls faced a busy year, with each week bringing a noon movie or some other activity that called for their service. Those girls that showed outstanding service during the year were privileged to usher at baccalaureate and commencement in the spring.

GIRLS' ROOM COMMITTEE

ARMED WITH BANDAGES, iodine, thermometers, and blankets, the members of the Girls' Room Committee were ever on hand to attend to scratches, blisters, sore throats, and various other aches and pains suffered by students at Highline. Each day presented a new and busy schedule. Mornings were given over to organizing health records and sorting permits for Miss Gandolfo. Every month, two or three girls had charge of decorating the window of the Girls' Club Room. They also kept needle and thread in the Club Room for emergencies.

Juanita Jaber, chairman, was responsible for getting two girls to stay in the nurse's room each period. So many girls signed up that two shifts were organized, one for first and one for second semester, with extras in case of the absence of a regular girl.

PENNY PIRATES' PATROL

KEEPING THEIR "LONELY" VIGIL in the halls during class periods, and often shivering at their stations, members of the Penny Pirates' Patrol, clad in blue weskits, were seen checking on the permits of all passers-by. Many an errant Pirate attempted to dodge their all-seeing eyes but to no avail. Another task for these girls was to remind students to put up their stools and clean up their waste paper in the cafeteria. But there was a more pleasant duty for this service group, that of acting as hostesses to strangers who came to Highline's halls.

This group was organized as a replacement for the cafeteria patrol of the past years. However, their duties included the added hall and hostess activities. The girls were directed by their chairman, Muriel Weber, and advised by Miss Durning.

PIRATE BARKERS

NO MATTER HOW important an event may be, its success depends a great deal on the publicity it receives. Such was the belief of this year's Publicity Club. Margie Tobie presided over the meetings, assisted by the other officers, Bob DeWitt, vice-president; Muriel Weber, secretary; Ken Lewis, business manager; and Laurabelle Minter, faculty adviser. Representatives from each school-sponsored activity and a few members-at-large made up the club.

"Ghost Wanted" afforded the most spectacular publicity, with blue and white ghost bedecked posters scattered over the entire district. During the sports' season, important athletic events were posted on a ten-foot sign on First Avenue, which was painted and maintained by Wilfried Hamm. Other committees were in charge of gathering material, putting up posters, and taking them down. Special recognition was due Mr. Simpson's art classes for this year's assistance.

TICKETEERS

PERFORMING THEIR TASKS ably the "Ticketeers," newest of Highline's service clubs, conducted the sale of tickets and programs at all the major events of the school year. Established for the first time this year the members of the club earned their good reputation with accurate, conscientious work. Many times the members, even though it was inconvenient for them, gave up whole evenings to perform some small task, receiving in exchange Torch credit and the satisfaction of a job well done.

Led by Yolanda Parente, student business manager; Carol Nielson, president; and Mr. Hungerford, adviser, the club raised more than four hundred dollars for the benefit of the medical fund for injured athletes. Lest their excellent work be discontinued next year, the sophomores have been busy training an alert group of ninth graders to carry on with the work so admirably begun this year.

LOGIC, THEIR WEAPON

RESOLVED: "That the President of the United States should be elected by the direct vote of the people." This was the battle cry that broke the quiet solitude of room 154 every third period. Armed with this cry and logic, this year's tongue-flippers forged on to win all league debates, except the last one with Auburn, which they tied.

Not only did the Puget Sound League contenders bow to the Pirate forensic artists, but teams from all over the state found Highline no easy match. By continuing their winning streak, Bob DeWitt, Ray Parr, and Bob Videen brought home second place cups in cross-question and one-man style of debate in the state wide tourney at C.P.S. It was this outstanding record that entitled four members of the squad to go to the state tournament at W.S.C. Much of the credit for this year's record may be traced to Miss Lindstrom and the new debate class.

SOCRATES TO BENCHLEY

AN ENERGETIC GROUP of sophistical intellectuals gathered every Monday noon to make a thirty minute solution of the world's complexities. Advised by Mr. Mason, the free thinkers of the Philosophy Club learned and taught at the same time. The club, celebrating its third year of existence, was principally concerned with learning through thought rather than force, and coming to the realization of what wide fields of knowledge man has yet to conquer.

As the majority of the members believed in principles of individual liberty, the condition of having no formal officers presented a unique circumstance; consequently, a discussion chairman led in presenting past and current views of thought. Some of the subjects discussed were mercy killings, the arts and sciences, religion, capital punishment, the harm of inaccurate psychology, futility of war, and the intrinsic value of salami.

LITTLE SHOTS

CLICK! and another school day memory was recorded forever. This was the Camera Club in action. The year saw a lot of activity, too, as the members learned more and more of photography, both through slides and lectures at their noon meetings and through the after school classes in developing, printing, and enlarging, conducted by Mr. Warren Herbage, the club's adviser. A field trip, several exhibitions of pictures, and the co-sponsorship of the Pirates' Log snapshot contest rounded out the year's events.

Officers of the club were Don Olson, president, during first semester; LaMont Gooch, second semester; Gail Bliss, vice-president; and Rose Marie Marsden, secretary-treasurer. It was their job to keep the interest flaming for these snap-happy high school photographers.

IN MOVIELAND

PROVIDING FILMS that add to the enrichment of classroom instruction was the goal worked for by the seventeen members of the Movie Operators Club. They were led by Ben Estes, president, and Joan Webber, the only girl in the club, as secretary-treasurer. This year that club was ably supervised by a new adviser, Mr. Chester Read, who had his hands full finding places in which to show all the films ordered by the teachers.

The Movie Operators were fortunate in getting a new projector purchased by the school district and a new movie screen, donated by the Des Moines theater. These improved the noon movies shown in the school auditorium. This spring as a climax to the school year, the club enjoyed an informative tour of the University of Washington film library.

PEP AS IN PEPPER

WOMANHOOD'S intuitive hand ruled the members of the Pep Club this year through three of the officers. President was Pattie Stewart, with Blanche Black and Pat Carter as secretary and treasurer respectively. Harold Hanson, as vice-president, represented the male faction of the club and Mr. Spencer Swenson was faculty adviser.

This year's largest extravaganza, Homecoming, welcomed the return of a record number of grads. After a whirlwind afternoon of the luncheon, meetings, and assembly, present and former students cheered the football team to victory. The big dance, highlighted by the coronation of Queen Carol Betts and her princesses, Donna Massie and Iris Hegre, rounded out the day's activities. In April the pepsters sponsored the third annual Pioneer Day, complete with beard-growing contest, a "wild and woolly" assembly, and in the evening, a program tolo with special decorations, reminiscent of the Old West. Girls in pigtails and pinafores, boys in plaid shirts and jeans completed the festive air of the day.

Pep and enthusiasm are wholesome qualities and are not the sole property of any one neighborhood, school, or group. Hence, Highline High School can be commended for an enthusiastic gathering at almost any of its undertakings. Behind such enthusiasm are usually found one or more groups which help with various phases of the activity. Among these can be counted the Pep Club, which has contributed no small part to the events in the social life of Highline.

THEY LEAD, WE FOLLOW

NO NAME could adequately describe an organization with so many and varied activities as the Yell and Song Club. Again head yell leader and president of the club, Monna Rae Matthew, was assisted by Juanita Jaber, vice-president; Jamel Hassen, secretary; and Gerry Tallent, treasurer. Miss Mildred Gibson was faculty adviser.

The club's activities began on the first day of the school year, when the yell and song leaders piled up nickels in the treasury by selling football rooter pencils. Shakers and rooter hats, as well as the pencils, were sold during football and basketball seasons by the many members of the club. Clever and amusing skits presented by the budding thespians of the organization heightened the student body's enthusiasm in the sports events of the fall and winter. In the spring, when many a young girl's fancy turned to thoughts of being a yell or song leader, the queens and princesses spent several weeks after school teaching eager aspirants motions and formations.

Highline had an especially good reason for being proud of its cheer-leaders this year when they were selected to lead state rooters at the all-star football game in August. Sprightly Queen Monna Rae had as her royal court of yell princesses Jamel Hassen, Gerry Tallent, Audrey Counter, and Nadine Deffries. The song leaders, who displayed colorful new outfits this year, were Janet Rinehart, queen, and Maxine LeDrew, Lonnie Wickstead, Betty Mustoe, Bonnie Wallace, and Frary Hager.

GHOST WANTED

"'AVAUNT! and quit my sight! Thy bones are marrowless,' in fact you have no bones," screamed Hugo Bromley at the specter of terror in this year's all-school play, "Ghost Wanted," sponsored by the Drama Shoppe, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Shipley.

The plot of the play was centered around an old New England mansion in a prevailing atmosphere of wind, rain and—Ghosts.

Answering to an ad of "Ghost Wanted," two young heroes, Hugo Bromley (Norman Boulanger) and Jeff Hall (Bob DeWitt), arrived upon the scene where they met two attractive young sisters, Gale and Ginger Stormgay (Marjorie Tobie and Gerry Tallent). From this beginning the two boys find themselves thrown headlong into a chain of mysterious happenings.

Much of the credit toward the success of the play was traceable to the various organizations which participated in and sponsored the hit. Stage Crew, Makeup Club, Publicity Club, and Drama Shoppe all lent their talents to the final production.

"Ghost Wanted" was long remembered for its action, suspense—and the odor of seaweed, which prevailed backstage long after the close of the production.

BEHIND THE SCENES

"WILL ALL OF YOU who are completely made-up kindly get out!" This was the statement frequently issuing from the rooms underneath the stage, official headquarters of the Makeup Club. The statement was usually made by President Norman Boulanger, and enforced by Lawrence Holliday, vice-president, and Margie McCain, secretary. Members of the club chose these camouflage artists as their leaders for 1950 because of their experience and ability. Chief checker and corrector of errors was Miss Claudia Nichols, who in cases of extreme emergency, and lack of time, also took over several make-up jobs.

The past year proved a busy one for these revelers in grease paint, with the Senior Variety Hour, operetta, the all-school play, and Christmas program heading their long list of projects. These productions and the large casts that participated in them presented problems which were successfully overcome by an able staff of make-up members.

These programs could not have been successfully completed without the hours of constant work before, during, and after school that were put in by Highline's capable stage crew. This year's stage crew was responsible for the realistic settings of "Ghost Wanted" and "Meet Arizona." Examining finished work and supplying needed suggestions was done by Mr. Donald Simpson.

SENIORS PRESENT . . . . . .

JANUARY . . . Curtain time drew near, the stage was set, and nearly one hundred anxious seniors checked cues, costumes, and makeup in preparation for "A Dreamer's Holiday." As the January calendar girl took her place, the curtains opened on a group of New Year's revelers being entertained with a rhumba by Doris Arkills and Bill Saunders. Bob DeWitt, announcing the numbers, then introduced Rick Anderson, who sang "Sentimental Me." At the finish of "Let's Start the New Year Right," by Shirley Brown, the curtain swished shut and, while the debris was being cleared away, the audience was entertained by the clarinet quartette's version of "Begin the Beguine."

FEBRUARY . . . "The Co'nah of Fou'th an' Grand" was the scene set for February, and five shoe shine boys were on the job singing "Chatanooga Shoe Shine Boy" and "Rag Mop," accompanied by Gail Bliss's enthusiastic Boogie-Woogie and the tapping of feet. It was several days before this month's representatives regained their natural color.

MARCH . . . The palm trees and sweet-smelling flowers were just right, as was the soft music, but Hawaii was never like this! "Vacationing the Hawaii" was memorable for an authentic hula performed by Pattie Stewart, a not-so-authentic hula by Jack Stielow, singing sailors, and the captivating rhythm of the Hawaiian Stick Dance.

APRIL . . . From Hawaii to a western ranch is a long jump, but with modern transportation miracles, Highline's Student Body took this jump for April. Neil Mill, alias Al Jolson, set the scene for the "Rainy Month" singing "April Showers." In real range style the Prairie Darlin's played and sang "Have I Told You Lately That I Love You."

MAY . . . Opening the scene for May, Joan Matthews sang "Indian Love Call," especially requested by Mr. Earl Trowbridge. Then with a sweep of maroon velvet a bare stage was revealed as a background for Monte Gooch and Pat Mayer. Their act? Take two fancy skaters, add juggling, and jokes, and there it is—"Skiddin' and Skatin'."

JUNE . . . It must have been love; nothing else could explain the mad, merry confusion of "All Because You Kissed Me Good-Night." Lillian Manzo and Chuck Tucker were the mixed-up victims of Cupid's darts. Something new in bridal attire was displayed by June's calendar girl, who wore a pink creation of the "short formal" style.

. . . . . DREAMER'S HOLIDAY

JULY . . . Six months down, six to go, and a more appreciative and responsive audience couldn't be found. Master of Ceremonies Bob Videen, his arms filled with corsages and boutonnieres, made floral presentations to Senior Advisers Earl Trowbridge, Jack Mackenroth, Mae Hunter and Laurabelle Minter. Further presentations were made to Margaret Rydholm, programs; Claudia Nichols, makeup; and Donald Simpson, stage crew. Chairman Margaret Orr received a bouquet of roses from the cast. Then the house lights dimmed and things began to pop. In true Fourth of July style were Donna's Dolls, six dancing firecrackers in costumes of red, white and blue.

AUGUST . . . Flips, rolls, and difficult balances were the order of the day for the blue and white clad "Muscle Men." These tumblers gave an exhibition that was breath-taking to the audience as well as to themselves. Following this delightful display of co-ordination and skill, Joe Paolino gave a rendition of "The Desert Song."

SEPTEMBER . . . Traveling again, the scene went to Scotland, where, to the accompaniment of real Scotch bagpipes, Monna Rae Matthew, Gerry Tallent, and Floyd Brown danced the Highland Fling, complete with kilts and Scotch plaid. When the breathless trio finished, and the applause finally died down, Ronnie Jones gave a demonstration of saxophones and clarinets.

OCTOBER . . . Summer comes and goes, as do summer romances. So was it in "George," a one-act farce concerning the affairs of a flirtatious playboy with an overly-romantic wife. Consequences left a trail of broken-hearted actors and actresses and a rib-tickled audience. Not to be forgotten was the curtain act by Howard "Wild Goose" Ringoen.

NOVEMBER . . . November marched in with rhythmic feet and twinkling batons as the Twirling Quartette pranced through their routine. Sharon Pohl, although far from being a senior, could hold her own with the rest through the difficult and showy finger twirls, gymnastics, and tosses. Yes, here was November, with its football games and crisp weather.

DECEMBER . . . The finale arrived at last, and every senior breathed a great deal more easily, as the full cast filed onto the stage for two choruses of "A Dreamer's Holiday," the theme song of the production. A pleased audience regretfully allowed the final curtain to drop after calling back the participants again and again.

FRIENDS BUILD TOGETHER

"LET HIM RUN into the gutter" . . . "Give her a double spread" . . . "Cut off his leg and save an inch." If you don't recognize these phrases you weren't in 242 during the past year. Editor Ray Parr and Mrs. Birdie Davis, adviser, could always be found there operating upon some unsuspecting victim.

The senior editors, Muriel Weber, Carolyn Fender, Diane Williams, and Jack Armstrong, spent many hours in friendly discussion of their fellow classmates devising pleasant write-ups. Associate editor Louanne Martin mastered many of the intricacies of the LOG. Roger Cronk, staff photographer, and his assistants, Gail Bliss, Douglas Rissell, and Clyde Axford, were in charge of taking pictures. They were ably helped by "Parker of Hollywood," who took pictures of the classes, faculty, and several clubs.

Dick Whitney and Connie Little, business managers, wrested the pennies from the students' pockets with noon movies, book jackets, and pen and pencil sets. Juniors were well taken care of by Nancy Ehle, Gene Hufeisen, Dan Berg, and Jim Friet. The sophomores were accounted for with Joan Burak, Patty MacNamara, and Don Sherrard. Newcomers this year who made a worthy contribution to the junior high section were Ronnie Usher, Joan Ellington, and David Musto.

In the fall an Annual Staff Workshop was held at the University of Washington. Groups discussed various phases of publishing an annual, including important suggestions and recommendations for the layout, art, photography, printing, editing, and financing. Ray Parr, Muriel Weber, Dick Whitney and Louanne Martin attended these conferences and brought back many pointers.

Ray Parr and Muriel Weber were received into Quill and Scroll, national honor society for journalists, in March—just in time to compensate for the tension of final deadlines.

WITH MALICE TOWARD NONE

"CUT OFF HER EAR" . . . "Kill the senior band" . . . "Pull out that head" and other such terrifying remarks truly did not issue from the walls of some concentration camp—but were merely the trademarks of a busy staff of journalists in room 246, frantically creating the High Lines.

Editors-in-chief and front page supervisors were Janet Usher and Lael Vert, while Bob Ross handled sports news and Elaine Daverin managed the news of two junior highs, both Highline and Puget Sound. Early in November, Bob Videen attained the position of feature editor, thus rounding out the editorial staff.

Another full scale job of any newspaper is concerned with its financing. Mona Beers and Margie Kemp, working as business manager and advertising manager, respectively, were able to keep the paper on a solvent basis. After each issue of the bi-weekly High-Lines, Edith Emery, as exchange editor, took charge of sending out over seventy exchange copies to other high schools, former students, and advertisers.

The High Lines staff, which is advised by Miss Laurabelle Minter, sponsored one major project for the school year in the "Student of the Year" contest. Patterned after Time magazine's "Man of the Year" contest, written recommendations were submitted by the students. These were judged by the editorial staff and the first "Student of the Year" title was awarded to Roger Read. His name was engraved on a bronze plaque, to which the names of the winners of subsequent contests will be added.

Assisting in the job of editing the various pages were juniors Harriet Lord, Sharon Pearson, Louanne Martin, Bob Hackman, and Larry Hildebrand.

PETITE POLITICS

ENDEAVORING to provide worthwhile entertainment for the eighth and ninth grade boys, the Junior High Boys' Club furnished a well-rounded schedule of athletic and social events under the excellent supervision of Mr. Neil McKay. Their principal officers were President Gerald Street, Vice-President John MacKenzie, Secretary Pete Nicholas, and Treasurer Jim Webster. The cabinet was composed of officers, five committees with three members each, together with an eighth grade representative, total of twenty.

"To promote friendship in the Junior High and get more girls actively working in the Girls' Club," were the goals of this group under the supervision of Miss Theda Lomax. The officers were Darlene Green, president; Yolanda Jensen, vice-president; Rose Smith, secretary; and Joan Ellington, treasurer. Chairmen of various committees were: Jan Redding, Hospitality; Judy Henry, Friendship; Nanette Maze, Publicity; Geraldine Lindsey, Music; Barbara Harkins, Mother-Daughter Tea; Margot McIntyre, Art; Donnabel Abrahamson, Cafeteria and Hall Patrol; and Pat Hill, Standards. Patty Williams and Phyllis Hoffman were eighth grade representatives.

During the year the Boys' Club sponsored many school activities such as football, basketball, baseball and a noon movie, the proceeds of which were donated to the Harold Rude Memorial Fund. The girls were equally busy with raising money for the heart fund and working out the plans for the Mother-Daughter Tea which was held in April.

SHELF DUSTERS

WITH THE ASSISTANCE of Miss Grodvig, the Junior High Library Staff capably aided students with reference problems this year. This staff, organized last year, has been a great help to students who were given special reading or who needed assistance in outside assignments. This service group was especially valuable to the "book worms" because of the great number of volumes added to the shelves during the summer months.

The members had many duties, such as checking books in and out, collecting fines, and keeping shelves dusted and in order. Knowledge-seeking students obtained encyclopedias, dictionaries, and other materials at the handy window which opened to the study hall. Staff membership first semester was seventeen; second semester, eleven; with three librarians serving each period.

THEY STAND AND SERVE

SERVICE WAS THE MOTTO of the Junior High Usherettes as they helped the Highline Babes find seats in assemblies and at games, or assisted in keeping order at these functions. There were thirty members of this organization, which was supervised by Miss Dorothy Cope. Twenty were freshmen and the remaining ten were eighth graders. The eighth graders were admitted in the second semester on recommendation of the faculty.

In the fall a constitution was drawn up for the club and the officers were elected. Officers were Judy Henry, president; Elaine King, vice-president; and Joan Ellington, secretary. The usherettes must have a grade average of "C" or better and cannot be in more than three other activities. Each girl was issued a pass to excuse her early to the assembly if she were ushering. Every girl also received a badge, consisting of a pin with the usher's name on it and with red and white ribbons below.

KNIGHTS ON PATROL

WHEN ONE STROLLED down the junior high halls he was aware that the Knights of Service were taking seriously their responsibilities towards their school. The club was composed of sixteen members who were chosen while they were in the eighth grade for their sportsmanship, personality, and gentleman-like conduct. Their sole purpose was to help their fellow students make this year at Highline more worthwhile than ever.

This year the Knights of Service have been exceptionally busy. They patrolled not only the halls day in and day out but also did a splendid job of patrolling at the preliminary basketball tournament held in the Highline gym. Although most of their members will be going on to senior high, they have selected a worthy group of thirteen to keep the ball rolling and to uphold the fine record that they have established.

LIFE GUARDS, ALL

THERE WAS SOMETHING about riding a school bus that turned good little cherubs into noisy little imps. If there are any doubts concerning the truth of this statement, ask any one of the bus patrol members and he will pour forth all the facts. It was not easy to keep anxious passengers quiet, but these capable students seemed to manage quite well. The Washington State Patrol recognized the important services of the Bus Patrol and cooperated with them, aiding in the loading of buses and the management of after-school traffic.

Twice this year the Bus Patrol took time out for relaxation. At Christmas the P.-T. A. sponsored a party, and during spring they took a "skies-the-limit" outing to Playland, when the community sponsored a free party for patrol members. Mr. Wagness had charge of the patrol and advised them in their effort to maintain order on every one of the sixty daily trips the school busses made.

BUSY LITTLE BRAINS

LED BY President Doreen Bordwell, Vice-President Judy Henry, Secretary-Treasurer Nanette Maze, and advised by Mr. William H. Denman, the Junior High Torch Society gained recognition as one of the junior high's foremost organizations this year. Among the forty Torch members were several student-body officers and Girls' Club Cabinet members, as well as the president of the Boys' Club. Mention should also be given to Miss Ina Fortin, who advised the prospective Torch members from the eighth grade.

Junior High Torch is made up entirely of ninth grade students. A "B" grade average for the second and third quarters of the preceding year, plus at least one activity point, are requirements for Torch membership. The "B" average may be calculated by a point system. Allowing three points to equal an "A"; two points for a "B"; and one point for a "C," a "B" average consists of twenty points for the previously-mentioned second and third quarters. A "D" or "F," grade when received at the climax of any quarter, disqualifies a student from Torch membership. Each activity point is equal to one point toward the total of twenty. Activity points are obtained by active participation in clubs, music, sports, school jobs, or numerous other extra-curricular activities.

One of the highlights of this year's Torch schedule was an assembly which featured a speech by Mr. Carl Jensen and the distribution of Torch pins and certificates to the members by Mr. Denman. Another important function was the work with the Junior High Ushers' Club. This group is composed of junior high girls, several belonging to Torch.

The purpose of the society is to prepare the above average students for both the scholastic and extra-curricular activities of senior high. That this is accomplished is proved by the fact that many former Junior High Torch members continue their fine work throughout the four years of senior high.

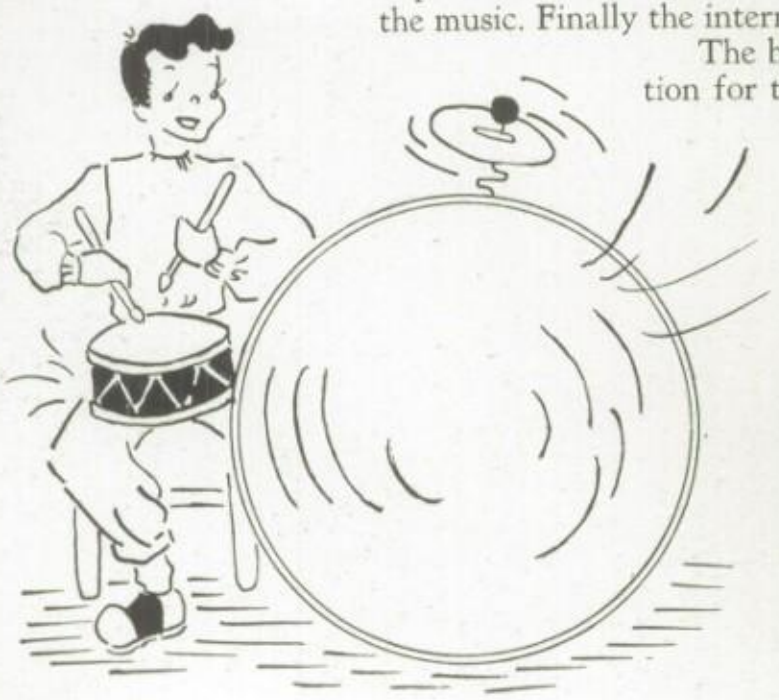
FORTISSIMO

THIS YEAR'S BAND, the largest and finest of Highline's bands to date, began the year by playing in the opening day assembly. Their next appearances were at the Pirate football games, where spectacular performances were given at half-times. The 1949-1950 band had something new; for the first time, the marching was led by a drum-major. Ronny Jones did the signal-giving, with Norma Ostrom and Georgia Beal, head majorettes, and Vickey Newberg, LorRae Tift, and Doris Harper all doing outstanding twirling routines. Sharon Pohl was mascot.

The music-masters' attention was turned to the serious strain with the giving of a winter concert. The performance was given an added sparkle with the clarinet and French horn quartettes doing the sparkling. Next on the agenda, the Pirate cagers represented the Puget Sound League at the State tournament, with the band providing the music. Finally the interruptions were over, and the Spring Concert was given.



The biggest moment for the members were those spent in preparation for the Washington State Apple Blossom Festival at Wenatchee, with the crowning glory coming the moment the whistle was blown and the band stepped off for their part in the parade. The high-steppers not only marched on the day of the parade, but gave a concert en route.

Things were rushed just before leaving for Wenatchee, as band members had to prepare for the annual band contest. Mr. Howard Jakey conducted the group to one of the highest ratings of the day.

This year's officers were Ronny Jones, student conductor and president; Frank Knapp, vice-president; and Georgia Beal, secretary.

Highline's band, along with the song and yell staffs, was chosen to represent the entire state in the State versus Seattle football game held in late summer. All graduating seniors will return to help with marching activities. Congratulations and good-luck to the band of 1949-1950!

PIANISSIMO

"WHAT KEY IS THAT?" "No, no, not an up bow!" "You're flat." "Help, help," are only a few of the wild cries that were heard from music lovers paradise, room 148. In reality, though, the members of senior orchestra consisted of a very wonderful group of students, for all strove together for their common purpose of creating and enjoying good music. Officers for the music makers this year were Margie McCain, president; Doris Harper, secretary-treasurer; with Betty Ackles, assisted by Richard Linde, keeping tabs on the music and Mr. Howard Jakey, directing.

The Highline orchestra was fortunate this year in having a harp loaned to the school by Mr. Graf of the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. This harp was presented to the student body in a special assembly, featuring Mr. Hubert Graf as harp soloist. Highline students again heard the lovely chords of the harp in the Christmas assembly in which Miss Mary Durning played this instrument.

The Western Washington Music Meet was held at Highline for the second time early in March, with many students from the orchestra playing in the festival orchestra. Those representing Highline were Shirley Kaltenbach, Dan Berg, Betty Ackles, Don Schmitt, Doris Harper, Margie McCain, Ed Grier, Georgia Beal, and Jerry Morris. A number of musicians played solos as well, including Doris Harper, Marilyn Anderson, Patsy Flippo, Ed Grier, and Jerry Morris. Also playing in the contest was the senior string quartet with Don Schmitt, first violin; Margie McCain, second violin; Shirley Kaltenbach, viola; and Daniel Berg, 'cello. This group enjoyed an active year, playing at many programs and teas.

At the Tacoma music contest held in April, the orchestra played "The Calif of Bagdad Overture" by Boieldieu, "The Ballet Egyptian" by Luigini, and "Reverie" by Debussy. Final events in which senior orchestra participated were the Spring Concert, given in May by the entire music department, and Baccalaureate exercises in June.

MASTER-SINGERS

"SOPRANOS, you're flat"—"Basses, get under the tone"—"Do, re, mi, fa, sol, la, ti, do"—"Just touch the 'r'." Here were but a few of the interesting phrases heard pouring out of room 150 every morning first period. With Mr. Harry Lemon as director, Duane Smith as accompanist, and the sixty silver voices of the members, the A Cappella Choir had a happy and successful year.

Their first performance was the dedication game on Memorial Field for which they sang "The Hymn of Youth." At the Homecoming game they put on their walking shoes and with the glee clubs and band did many intricate formations on Memorial Field. Next on their list was the Armistice Day assembly at which they sang "One World" and "You'll Never Walk Alone." Following this assembly the choir worked on the Thanksgiving program at which time they offered the "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and a medley. Then came the Christmas season, with the choir's caroling at hospitals, old people's homes, and the evening Christmas concert, one of the special events of the year.

Early in the spring the choir shared honors with the glee clubs when they presented the dude ranch operetta, "Meet Arizona," a marked success. Leading the cast in this production were Ricky Anderson and Joan Mathews. This colorful event gave way to practices for the Easter morning sunrise service held on Memorial field. For this occasion the songs "Now Let the Full Toned Chorus" and "Christ Arose" were sung. In May they participated in the second concert of the year; for this event they sang a number of negro spirituals, "Rock O' My Soul," "Wade in de Water," "I Got Shoes," and "Dry Bones."

Outstanding events of the year were the solo contest and the vocal ensemble contest. Choir members who entered in the solo contest were Peggy Ballard, Joan Mathews, Rick Anderson, Joe Paolino, Chuck Tucker, Dave Williams, and Dick Gray. Twenty-eight choir members took part in the Festival Chorus of 250 members. The choir entered the vocal ensemble contest held at Renton High School. Songs given on this occasion were "Oh, Blest Are They," by Tschaikowsky, and "To the Dawn," by Williams. They received a rating of excellent for their work at this contest. The choir wound up their successful year by singing at Baccalaureate service.

MODERN GLEEMEN

VERSATILITY was the by-word of the Girls' Glee Club this year as they sang their way through four activity-packed quarters. First on the agenda were marching and singing between halves of the home football games. After the final gun of the Thanksgiving Day tussle, the girls turned their attention to their contribution for the annual Christmas assembly. Their act, presented in conjunction with Boys' Glee, was "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," which took place in Santa's toyshop. The Glee Club again sang at the Winter Band Concert and proved to be an enjoyable addition to the program. Following this event, the girls began work on the operetta, "Meet Arizona," in which they portrayed Dudines, Indians, and Senoritas.

The Music Festival followed hard on the heels of the operetta, and the girls put in many a hard hour before they traveled to Renton to participate. The Girls' Glee Club then put on a good musical entertainment at the Coronation Ceremony for the South End Community Club Association. The final performance of the year was the annual Spring Concert held in May at Highline.

The Boys' Glee Club sang and marched with the girls at the football games and served as a romantic interest in "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" and in the spring operetta. Unfortunately the district music meet at Renton found the boys slightly below par because of the extended practices for "Meet Arizona" and as a consequence their final rating was only fair.

JOURNEYMEN MELODISTS

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Mrs. Akerlund, who was new to the junior high this year, the Ninth Grade Glee Club was busy with a number of various activities. The Glee Club participated in the Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Torch, and Christmas assemblies. But this wasn't the end of the activities for the year. The musicians entered the Western Washington Large Ensemble Contest, which was held at Renton. They also sang in the annual Highline District Spring Concert. There are forty-seven girls in this group.

Sixteen girls composed the Ninth Grade Highlinettes this year. These girls were picked from the Glee Club for their vocal talents. The Highlinettes sang in the Torch assembly and entered in the Western Washington Small Ensemble and Solo divisions. Three girls from this group entered solos in the contest. Geraldine Lindsey and Esther Baynton sang solos and received superior ratings, and Judy Henry played a piano solo. The Highlinettes also sang several songs at the junior high Mother-Daughter Tea. The annual Spring Concert was another event at which the Highlinettes used their vocal talents.

Another junior high music organization was the Boys' Glee Club. Nineteen boys from the eighth and ninth grades sang in this group. Their activities included singing in the Armistice and Christmas assemblies. Jack Kastien and Jim Strecker received recognition for their work in the Western Washington Music Contest.

APPRENTICE SONGSTERS

FOR THEIR FINE performances in school and extracurricular activities during the past year, the eighth grade Girls' Glee Club and the eighth grade Highlinettes gained well-deserved credit as a vital part of the junior high music department. Forty-four vocally tallented girls from the Class of '54 made up this year's eighth grade Girls' Glee Club, and the Highlinettes organization was composed of sixteen of the forty-four Glee Club members. Mrs. Marie Akerlund, junior high music director, supervised and instructed both of these groups.

Among the many school activities in which both groups participated, were several assemblies. The Glee Club took part in the Armistice assembly, the Thanksgiving program and the Christmas performance. The Highlinettes also contributed their talents to the Christmas program. Other musical activities in which these organizations sang including two music contests. The Highlinettes received an excellent rating for their singing in the Western Washington Music Meet, which was held at Highline in March, while the Glee Club participated in another contest during the month of April. Both groups also appeared in the annual Highline District Spring Concert.

In April these two eighth grade vocal organizations, together with the rest of the junior high music department, acted as hostesses to the seventh graders from several of the district's grade schools. Students from Angle Lake, Des Moines, Sunnydale, Mt. View, and White Center Heights grade schools made a tour of Highline's music department. The purpose of the tour was to promote more interest in music participation throughout the district.

Through this year's activities, these two groups, the eighth grade Girls' Glee Club and the eighth grade Highlinettes, received a background which should make their journey to musical leadership at Highline both profitable and enjoyable to themselves and the school.

THROUGHOUT the school year the Junior High Band shared honor along with the Senior Band in the colorful displays at the sports' activities. Their contributions to junior high football games, pep assemblies and the homecoming assembly were indispensable. The complex formations demonstrated would have been impossible without the aid of this group of music enthusiasts.

Public cooperation never seemed to wane, for despite the blustery weather, the winter band concert attracted a large and interested audience. The Annual Music Festival was originally planned to be presented at Puyallup, but there was a forced change of schedule because of the fire which destroyed their auditorium. As a result the festival was held at Highline and several band members, John Larson, Bill Duft, and Ray Snyder, entered.

Forty other musically talented students made up the roster of Junior Orchestra. This organization, through the leadership of Mr. Howard Jakey, contributed greatly to musical events during the school year. Orchestra also had representation in the Western Washington Solo contest, including Patsy Flippo, Marilyn Anderson, and Eyvonne Frechette.

. . . BATTLING

NOT ONLY did Highline pigskin performers successfully complete the season in a tie for second place, but they also won the much-cherished Renton game and received their first representation on the all-state football squad. . . . Seven returning lettermen formed the backbone of the squad which greeted Coach Jack Mackenroth in his second season at the Pirate helm. However, gridiron hopes were dented somewhat when the veteran guard, Bob Shaffer, was injured in a pre-season workout and his services were lost for the season. . . . Seattle Prep's Panthers capitalized on several Pirate mistakes, defeating the Purple and Gold in the season's opener at Memorial Stadium, 18-13. A 65-yard run-back of an intercepted pass spelled the difference for the Panthers. . . .The final gun was never so welcome during the season as was that which ended Highline's league opener with White River, the Buccaneers winning 13 to 6. The Hornets were four yards from pay-dirt as the hard-fought contest ended. . . . Again the Vikings threw a wrench into the Pirate football machine, winning the home debut by a 12 to 6 score. Duane Knighton hit Don Schroeder in the end zone with a pass for the only Pirate tally. . . . Playing an intersectional tilt with the Vancouver Trappers in the lumber city, the Purple and Gold were edged out in a tough ball game, 13 to 12. Solace was gained from the "Runner of the Week" honors that Bill Loken gained for his 97-yard touchdown gallop. . . . Despite a last minute 65-yard touchdown play by Highline, Sumner's Spartans were victors by a 12 to 6 score. In a defensive battle the Pirates were not able to score until Loken pitched an aerial 45 seconds before the gun. . . . Highline 31, Lake Washington 14.

BUCCANEERS . . .

Although the Pirates spotted their opponents to a 14-point lead in the first six minutes of the game, homecoming fans went away happy, as "Loken Unlimited" reached pay-dirt three times during the second half in leading the Purple and Gold to victory. . . . Guard Jule Romano spearheaded a tough defensive line which held Auburn scoreless until the final quarter. However, the Purple and Gold retaliated with two quick touchdowns and won 19 to 6. . . . Under downcast skies but not amid downcast spirits, Kent-Meridian fell, 26 to 13. Highline had difficulty in the early moments but built a winning margin during the second quarter. . . . Performing well both on offense and defense, Buccaneer gridiron participants built up a first half lead and retained it throughout the contest, to take a 25 to 7 decision over Clover Park. . . . If revenge is sweet, Highline had plenty of sugar after overpowering Renton, 19 to 7, in the traditional Thanksgiving Day battle. Breaking a three year Indian winning streak, the entire Pirate line-up recovered from their mid-season slump by playing the outstanding game of the season. . . . Receiving recognition for their fine play were Bill Loken, halfback, and Jule Romano, guard, Pirate representatives on the All-Conference squad, Bill for the third straight year. Dan Mahoney, center, and Don Schroeder, end, were given second team berths; while Bill Kincaid, end, Gene Steier, tackle, and Duane Knighton, halfback, were given honorable mention. . . . These honors were climaxed by the announcement of Loken's selection as All-State halfback, the first Highline player ever to receive a position. Also selected were Highline's Song and Yell Staff and the Pirates' marching band, all representing State in the grid classic.

THEY TOOK THE KNOCKS

ALTHOUGH the second team won only one game out of the several played, it showed flashes of brilliance many times. Since the team was composed of sophomores, the squad did well considering that it played against many teams consisting of juniors and seniors.

Several of the players showed varsity qualities with their vicious tackling, good blocking, hard running, and an unwavering will to win. At the end of the second team season these players continued with the varsity through the remainder of their games, and promised to be a helpful addition to the varsity squad. Among these standouts on the team were guards George Bonsey and Jim Forgaard; end, Bob Carlson; halfbacks, Bill Jackson and Arnie Hatch; and fullback, Don Doerflinger. These boys contributed greatly to the team's scoring and defensive punch. They even helped the varsity by playing the role of opposing teams in practice. Although the underclassmen may not have enjoyed this, they helped the varsity to understand the formations and plays of their opponents, a definite help when the crucial moment arrived.

Despite the difficulties in coaching the thirty-five boys, Bill Trowbridge was able to demonstrate many of the primary fundamentals of football tactics. Coaching was doubly difficult because one man had to handle both line and backfield.

The team's main weakness lay in its pass defense, and several teams scored against them with desperation tosses. If this one defect had been corrected they would, undoubtedly, have had a much better record. Nevertheless, this team might become a very effective unit as a varsity, and perhaps one of Highline's better elevens.

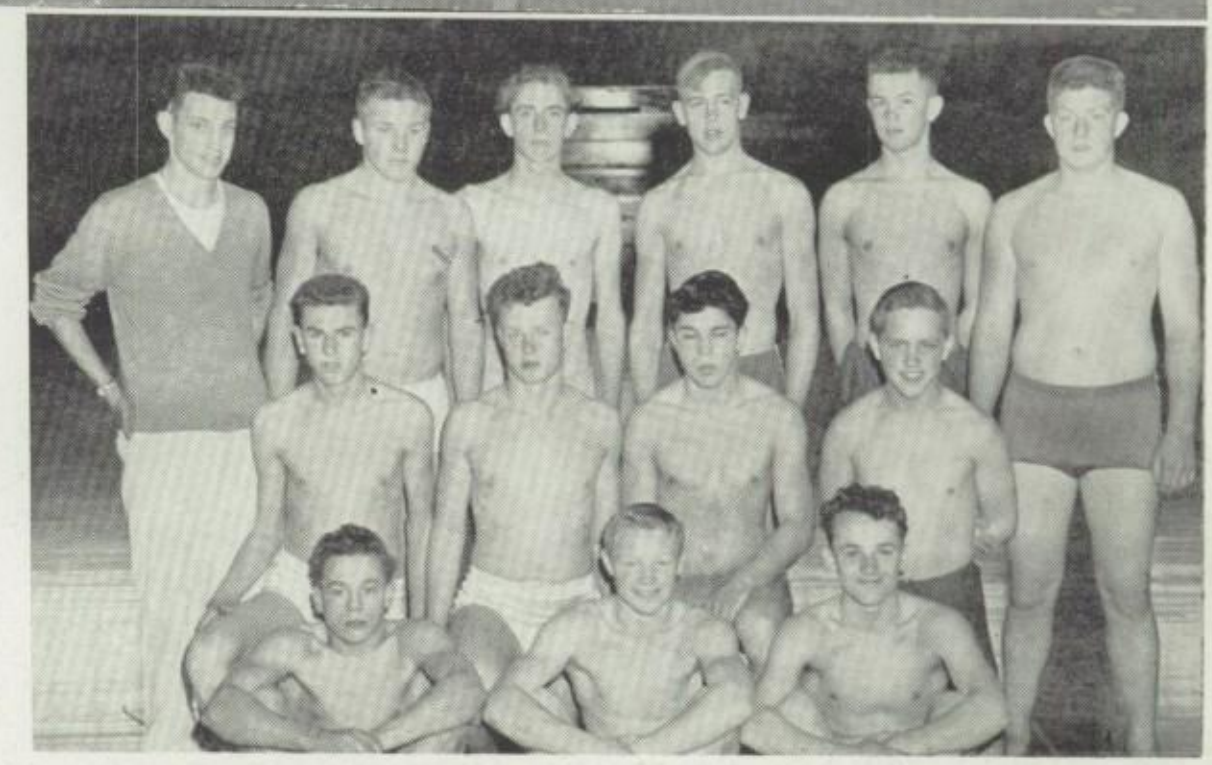
FLY-SWATTERS

"POINT HIGHLINE!" "Game Highline!" "Point—Set—Match—Highline!" were just a few of the exclamations heard on the Pirate courts this year. Those making the first squad were: Carlyn Walsworth, girls' singles; Betty Humes and Ann Keller, girls' doubles; Connie Little, Howard Wallenberg, and Ginny Selivanoff, mixed doubles; Bob Hogan, boys' singles; and Jim Massick, Dick Steinke, Bill Batterson, Howard Wallenburg, who were challenging each other for placement in boys' doubles.

When the year-book went to press, the Pirates had defeated Clover Park, Puyallup, Kent-Meridian, and the defending champions, Lake Washington. Since they only had three more league games to play, the chances for a tennis championship appeared excellent.



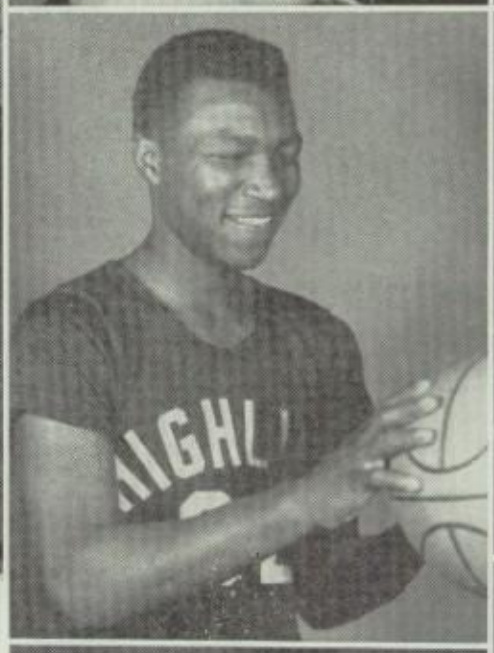
PIRATE MERMEN

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY boys met Coach Hurley De Roin's call for the first swim turnout. Although many were soon discouraged by the late practice, lack of space, and transportation difficulties, the enthusiastic swimmers continued.

Early in the season the Pirates were picked as the strongest squad in the league, but they lost four valuable lettermen before the first meet. Left with an inexperienced team they were defeated by Longview, Aberdeen, Mt. Vernon, and Stadium. Nevertheless, displaying great determination, they defeated Lincoln and Bremerton.

Individual star was Jim Rueschenberg, who returned from Hawaii late in the season. He supplied the Pirates with many late season thrills with his sensational last lap sprint in the gruelling distance freestyle. He paced Highline to sixth place in the state meet, five places, incidentally, above Renton.

Joe Matelich and Bill Rule, who both swam on Highline's first swim team, saw much action in dual meets. Gael Mood placed fifth in state in the one hundred-yard breast stroke.



THEY WENT . . . .

CLIMAXING a season-long, uphill battle, Highline cage performers captured the co-championship crown of the Puget Sound League and represented the Purple and Gold in the state tourney for the second time in three years.

The hoop season was begun with a high rate of optimism, as the Pirates won by two close scores the practice tilts against South Kitsap and Bremerton, and the league inaugural against highly-regarded White River.

Clover Park's Warriors ended the Buccaneers' winning and their own losing streak by edging the Purple and Gold, 33-32. Following this loss, a scrappy Kent-Meridian quintet further dampened Pirate spirits by taking a 29-24 decision in the final moments.

Highline's championship treasure ship was put on an even keel by a 44-27 victory over the Sumner Spartans, and a spectacular fourth-quarter shooting exhibition came close, but not quite close enough, to giving Highline another cage triumph, when Lake Washington's Ted Madison led his teammates to a 46-40 overtime win. Bob Malone's 17 points won the season's high point performance for the Pirate cagers.

Continuing in basketball where they left off in football, the Buccaneers scalped the Renton Indians by a 32-22 score.

The Highline casaba men went on to run up their victory streak to four straight by taking two hard-fought battles from White River and Puyallup, 42-35 and 40-32 respectively, and swamping Clover Park by a 55-28 score.

Again Jim Iddings and his Kent-Meridian teammates put a serious crimp in the Pirates' championship chances with a 38-32 defeat of the Swashbucklers.

PLAYOFF GAME

. . . . . TO STATE

Recovering sufficiently from this blow to their morale, the Pirates nipped the Sumner hoop performers, 39-36.

The low-point of the season occurred when Don Heacox's Auburn Trojans swamped the stunned Pirates, 55-32. This was somewhat atoned for by a 52-34 non-league victory over Seattle Prep in the Harold Rude Memorial Game.

A convincing 46-31 triumph over Puyallup's Vikings kept Highline's hoop squad in the race and avenged the loss suffered in football this last fall—and revenge was sweet as the Pirates defeated Auburn 43-39, and set the stage for the championship.

Playing their best game of the season at exactly the right time, the Buccaneers dumped Renton for the second time this year, handing them a 35-23 defeat, thereby earning for themselves the right to co-championship with Kent-Meridian.

Displaying the same brand of teamwork, hustle, and playing ability which carried them that far, the Highline quintet finally hung up a victory over the Kent-Meridian squad, 39-33, and won the right to represent the Puget Sound League in the State Tourney.

Kelso's Highlanders, champions of the Southern Division in the Southwest Conference, fell before the Purple and Gold squad, 35-30, in Highline's opening Tourney game. Tall Tony Vlastelica proved too much for the Bucs the second evening as he paced the Aberdeen Bobcats to a 56-35 win over Highline. As North Central's Indians had just too much height for the Pirates, they defeated the Bucs, 42-32, and eliminated them from the Tourney.

STALWART STARTERS

BOB MALONE'S first team All-Conference and third team All-State honors were indicative of the diminutive guard's value to the squad. Jack Angove, starting forward, was given honorable mention for All-Conference. Usually completing the starting line-up, were guard Ron Luthy, who was given honorable mention for State, dependable Bill Loken at forward, and tall, capable Howard Wallenburg at center. Also, the reserves, who kept the starters on their toes and occasionally broke into the starting line-up, deserve plenty of credit for the year's basketball team.

FUTURE CHAMPS

COACHED by Mr. Mackenroth the second team, composed mainly of juniors and sophomores, was not too successful in winning many games this year, but due to the experience and coaching in fundamentals many of the boys will be ready for first string assignments next year.

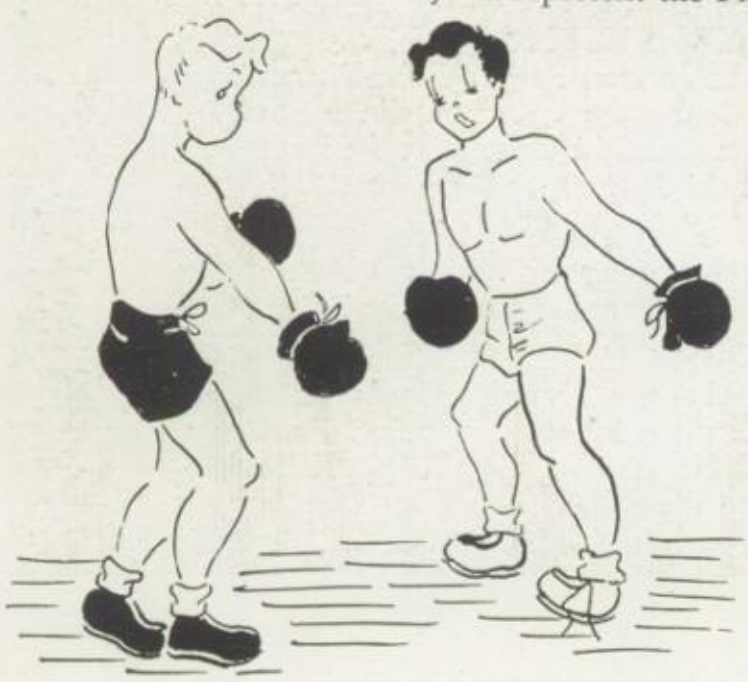
SHADES OF HERCULES

IN ITS SECOND YEAR at Highline the manly art came a long way from an intramural activity to a full scale sport between schools. There were two matches at home and two away, making four in all. In order to obtain awards, the boxers participated in three-fourths of the matches. Awards were given for the first time this year and they were certainly well deserved. Besides fighting in the actual matches the boys were constantly driving themselves to keep in shape. Although the first two matches with White River were lost, the team redeemed itself by winning its remaining duo from Lake Washington. Coach Hurley DeRoin was responsible for the first boxing turnout at Highline last year. This busy gentleman whipped together an ambitious group of boys to represent the Pirates in this rugged sport. Outstanding among the boys on this year's squad was middleweight Floyd Brown, the team's only undefeated senior high member. Jack Jackson, prominent heavyweight, lost only one fight, while Robert Watson was the only undefeated junior high student. Now a freshman and fighting in the bantamweight division, he shows exceeding promise for his years in senior high.



Also fairly new in the line of sports this year was wrestling. Since not as much competition was offered in this field, things did not advance as well as they did in boxing. Only one meet was held, and that with Stadium High of Tacoma. Highline's "canvas-backs" barely lost their first battle.

No awards were given to the wrestlers this year, but with more cooperation and interest among the boys, more competition will undoubtedly spring up between Highline and other schools. When this happens letters will surely be issued to the participants.

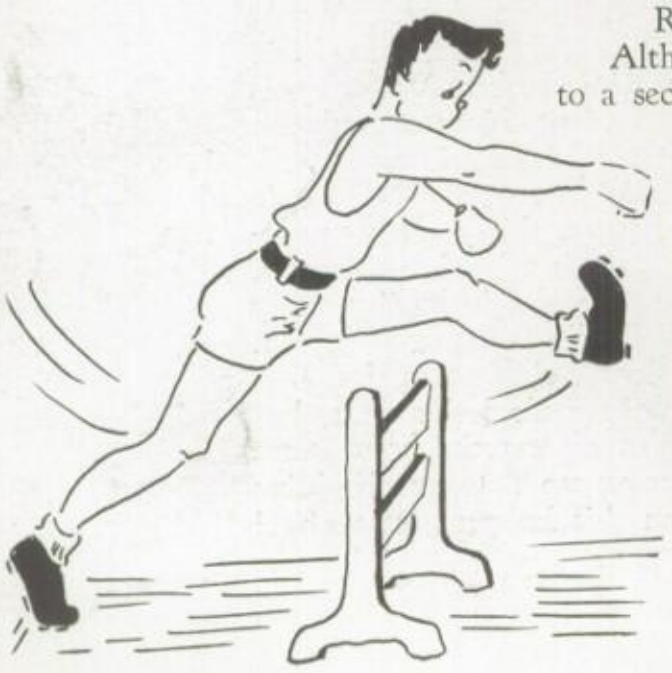
SENIOR CINDERMEN

IN HIS FIRST YEAR as director of Highline track fortunes, Coach Victor Carpine assembled a squad which ranked with the best in the league, the nine veteran thinclads leading a group which, at deadline time, stood a good chance of finishing among the leaders at the conference meet.

HIGHLINE 54, AUBURN 39¼, CLOVER PARK 37¾

Capturing seven first places in their initial cinder event, the Buccaneers began the season on an even keel. Rex Pearson's double victory in the pole vault and broad jump contributed materially to the victory.



RENTON 68, HIGHLINE 41, LAKE WASHINGTON 29

Although capturing only two events, the Indians relegated the Pirates to a second-place finish for the first time during the season. Again Highline showed strength in the distance and field events, but the Redskins garnered enough second and thirds to capture the meet.

SUMNER 50, WHITE RIVER 46, HIGHLINE 44

Having difficulty with the Hornets triangular track, the Purple and Gold cindermen were edged out by Sumner and White River.

CENTRALIA RELAYS—HIGHLINE FIFTH

Despite adverse weather conditions, several records were smashed as the Pirates lost fourth place by one-half point. Final results were Vancouver 43, Centralia 27, Puyallup 17½, Kelso 15½, and Highline 15 points.

PIRATE RELAYS

HELD UNDER perfect weather conditions, the seventh annual Highline Relays were captured by the perennially-strong Renton Indians.

Although the victors were only able to take one first place, they rolled up enough points to edge the host Pirates. Their lone victory in the 100-yard shuttle low hurdles was supplemented by four seconds, four third-place ties, one third and two fourths.

Greatest contributing factors to Highline's second-place finish were victories in the medley relay, Highline mile, and pole vault, plus a near-win in the 880 yard relay. Coming in behind the Bucs was Stadium of Tacoma, while Clover Park's Warriors came in fourth in a fourteen-school field.

Of the fourteen established marks which the athletes trained their sights on, seven were bettered and one was tied. New records were established in the Highline mile (won by Don Schroeder), medley relay (won by Highline), shot put relay, pole vault (won by Rex Pearson), discus, two-mile relay and the one-mile relay. The 10:8 standard in the junior 100-yard dash was tied.

Don Schroeder won the closest race of the day, hitting the tape barely one length ahead of Renton's Bob Mathieson. Overcoming a 50-yard deficit, Leland Peterson won the medley relay for the Pirates in a thrilling and convincing manner.

HIGHLINE 62, PUYALLUP 41, KENT-MERIDIAN 29

Collectively Highline stole the show, but individually Jim Iddings of Kent-Meridian was the main attraction, as he captured two events and deadlocked Harvey Ames in a third. Competing in his first meet of the season, Jack Angove captured the shot put and discus.

NORTH QUALIFYING MEET HIGHLINE SECOND

By press time, the Pirate cindermen had improved their early-season showing as they qualified ten men for conference and nearly upset the Indian applecart. Renton won the event with a total of 47 points, followed by Highline 42¼, Lake Washington 33¼, and Kent-Meridian 18½.

BASE ROBBERS

AS THE YEARBOOK went to press, the Pirate diamond squad found the athletic road extremely rocky, still looking for their initial league victory, although Seattle Prep was edged in one of the three pre-season contests.

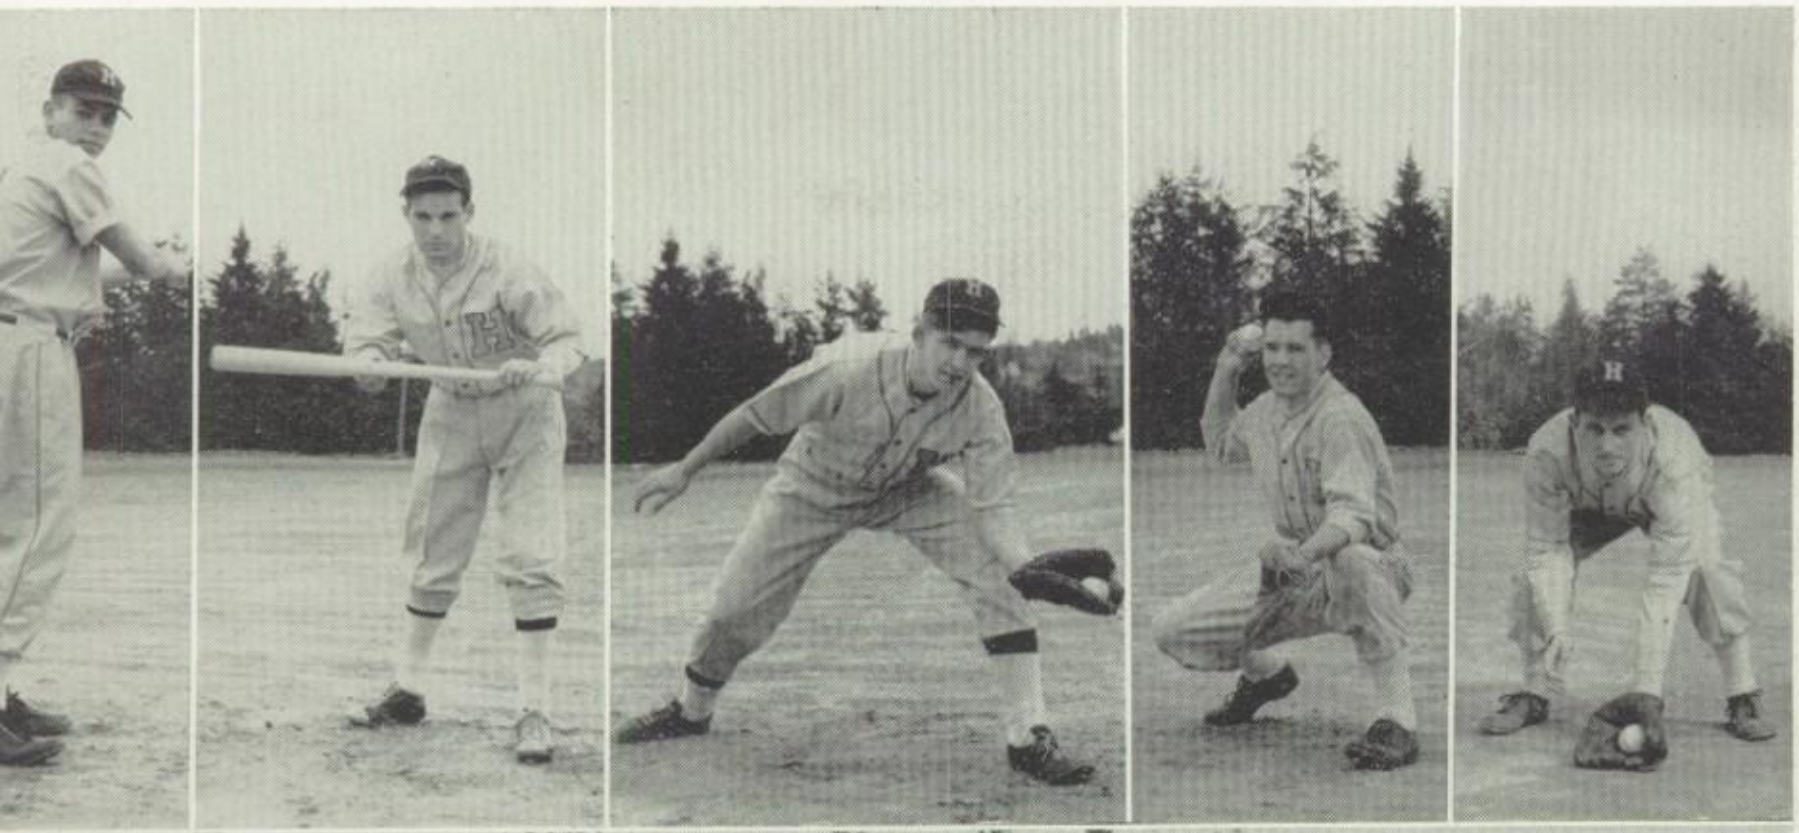
Five returning letter winners formed the nucleus of a squad which played some extremely good ball at times.

HIGHLINE 1, WHITE RIVER 3

The Hornets didn't begin to hit until the sixth inning but then concentrated four softies for three runs and the ball game. Ron Luthy's triple and Jack Jackson's outfield fly produced the solo tally which gave the Pirates their narrow lead until the fatal sixth.

HIGHLINE 0, KENT-MERIDIAN 1

Scoring a single run in the opening frame, the Royals held this narrow margin throughout the game, as Highline was unable to break through in the second and third.



BASEBALL • Vukonich, Rolph, Mayer, Hopkins, Malone.

"B" SQUAD BASEBALL • Row 3 (TOP): Sims, Servizi, Ostlund, Estabrook, Hutchins, Martin, R. Schraum, Hanlon, Boyd, Carlson, Wickstrom, Trach, Christy, Bonathan, Samek. Row 2: Lewis, Duft, Swanby, Seifert, Byquist, Williams, F. Schraum, D. Anderson, Whitworth, Leaf, Hoffman, Farrier, K. Anderson. Row 1: Knape, manager, Tomita, Klebold, Lake, Schmitt, Hubbard, Dennison, Ennis, House, Nutter, Taylor, Roberts.

After yielding the initial tally, Bill Sahlinger scattered seven hits during the remainder of the contest.

HIGHLINE 3, SUMNER 10

"You can't get them out of there if you put them on." How well the Bucs had this adage impressed upon them as the Spartans gained the lead when their first three runs were scored by men who had walked. The valley-town nine went on to pound out seven more runs, while Highline was held to a total of three, the trio being scored by reserves who entered the game in the later innings.

HIGHLINE 5, PUYALLUP 8

Although the Pirates mustered the offense, with the help of a couple of Viking miscues, Puyallup bunched their power for five runs in the third inning in building up a victory margin. Puyallup's all-around athletic ace, Jim Ball blasted one of the first homers ever hit over the right field fence, when he clouted the round-tripper in the seventh inning.

MUSCLE MAIDS

TURNING OUT almost every Tuesday and Thursday night at 3:30 in the "old cracker box," Highline's athletically inclined "Dianas" learned the true meaning of competition and sportsmanship.

With Miss Minnie Emry as "official referee," the girls successfully completed another year under the leadership of their elected officers, Doris Webster, president; Maria Schraum, vice-president; and Wanda Wollum, secretary-treasurer. Each active member must participate in five of the major sports, thus earning points toward an H.G.A.A. letter. These points may be accumulated during one or more of the three years the girls belong to the club.

Two playdays at Highline highlighted the past year. One, a softball hit, in which five schools took part, was held April 19. The other, on May 3, also included recreational sports, with representation from ten schools. The girls attending these playdays were entertained and were served a light lunch which added to the fun of the day.

BASKETBALL

FORTUNATE in having more girls than ever before, H.G.A.A. continued its active year with basketball tournaments. Doris Webster, captain, and a fleet-footed team gave the "old cracker box" a real beating when their challenge to the first period P.E. class was accepted by captain Donna Drummond.

Three games were played—H.G.A.A. won two out of three with scores of 14-13, 21-10. The year was packed full of excitement and surprises for all the girls who participated in this sport.

PING PONG

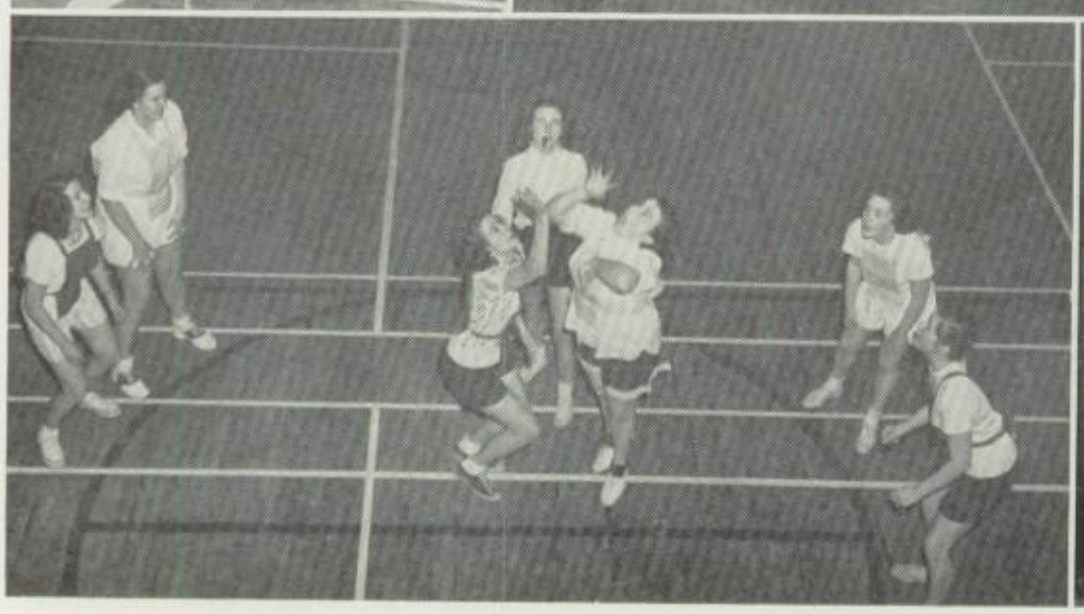
PING PONG was one of the many games played in the gym during this year's "rainy season."

With the tables and paddles coming out of their hiding places in the boys' gym, H.G.A.A. began their tournaments. With scores like 10-9 and 20-19, the girls voted ping pong to be one of their best sports. Even though they had many troubles in playing the tournaments, the season ended a success.

BADMINTON

SHOUTS of "Watch the birdie" echoed through the girls' gym this March. No, pictures weren't being taken; it was only the girls that were turning out for the singles and doubles badminton tournaments. They all tried hard to win the games and move to the top so winners of the tournaments might be crowned badminton champs of H.G.A.A.

In the doubles, Doris Webster and Nadine Fallis won the tournament, and in singles three were tied for first place—Nadine Fallis, Dorothy Carlson, and Eloise Grabish.



H.G.A.A. BADMINTON • Killian, Wetherby.

PING PONG • Stober, Keyes.

LETTER WINNERS • Wetherby, Bauman, Tibeau, Webster, Grabisch, Miss Emry, adviser, Wollum.

COMING ATHLETES

LED AND COACHED by Neil McKay, and assisted by two previous award winners in the line-up, the Junior High basketball team showed much promise while finishing the season firmly situated in second place. The Pirates' squad was made up of several fast, aggressive basketball players, who had plenty of power in reserve. Guard Pat Linnane and center Richard Kincaid, previous lettermen, and Frank Schraum, George Shaw, Bill Duft, and Chuck Kersten contributed largely to the team's success.

During the season, which called for two games with each of the other five teams in the league, the Babes started strong. They won four of their first five games, losing only to Renton, the championship team. However, the Pirates were not quite as successful in the second half of the season. They won only two of their last five contests, to complete the season with six wins and four losses.

By winning three out of five games during the past year, the Highline Junior High football squad completed their season in a tie for second place in the Northern Division standings. Although they suffered two setbacks away from home, the Babes were undefeated in three contests on Memorial Field. Highline emerged victorious over Lake Washington, Auburn, and Puget Sound Junior High Schools, but lost to Kent-Meridian and this year's champion, Renton. The Pirates were coached by Fred Taylor, who was assisted by Dick Metcalfe. The coaches spent a major portion of their time teaching the boys the fundamentals of the game, as there was a dearth of experienced players on the team.

JUNIOR JUMPERS

WHILE WORKING with an inexperienced team which contained only a handful of freshmen, Coach Dick Metcalfe, a new mentor this year, gained recognition as a fine leader. Although at press time the track season was not yet completed, the junior high track team ranked highly in all of their meets. With two contests remaining, the Babes had yet to take first place in any one of their previous meets. They finished second to Clover Park, White River, Puyallup, and Jane Addams Junior High Schools, and were third in a meet with Renton and Lake Washington. However, they finished ahead of Puget Sound twice, and of Sumner, and Kent-Meridian. One of the standouts of the squad was pole vaulter Eugene Christie, who had taken first place in every meet so far this year.

FLASHY SPLASHERS

ALTHOUGH WORKING under the disadvantage of irregular turnouts, the junior high swimming team well deserves credit for developing future senior high stars. Since Highline had no swimming pool, the mermen found it necessary to practice at the Seattle Y.M.C.A., and the lack of transportation made it impossible to hold regular turnouts. An intramural schedule was necessary because there was no organized league in which Highline could participate. In three meets this season, the Babes won from Mt. Vernon, but lost to Aberdeen and Stadium of Tacoma. Among the outstanding swimmers on the squad were Gerald Street and Art Brengan. Gerald Street was team captain and top point attainer, while Art Brengan was a star in the individual medley event, which calls for back stroke, breast stroke, and free style swimming. The team possessed eight swimmers who received a sufficient number of points to obtain emblem awards. Hurley DeRoin acted as coach for the squad. Considering the disadvantages set before them, it was truly a successful season for several boys who were willing to work together.
